

The Trump Code: Break Church Apathy From Prophetic Words

Throughout history, God has chosen various methods to speak prophetically, sometimes even through unexpected sources, such as political leaders, nationally recognized people, feature films, current events and other means.

President Donald Trump, though not a prophet, may be one of those vessels through which God speaks, delivering a message that resonates with the American people and particularly Christians in these turbulent times.

During the July 13 assassination attempt near Butler, Pennsylvania, President Trump narrowly escaped what could have been a fatal blow. As he fell to the ground after the gunshots, he repeated a singular word several times: “Fight, fight, fight!” To many, this might have seemed like a simple rallying cry, but I believe it was something far more—a prophetic exhortation from God to the American people, especially Christians.

The state of America's soul is on a precipice. A considerable portion of the Christian church has been indifferent, retreating from the call to defend truth and righteousness. The word “fight” is not about physical confrontation but standing up spiritually and morally in the face of evil. Revelation 21:8 reminds us of the gravity of cowardice and fear, sins that can lead to dire consequences for individuals and nations alike: “But the cowardly, the unbelieving, the vile, the murderers, the sexually immoral, those who practice magic arts, the idolaters and all liars—they will be consigned to the fiery lake of burning sulfur. This is the second

Many Christians and churches in America do not have an acceptable serious spiritual burden for America before the Infinite Personal Living God of the Universe and are doing very little to stand against the tide of spiritual wickedness. For example, with very few exceptions, I have almost never heard biblical sermons, teachings or studies regarding two of the most serious sins in the Bible, as emphasized by Jesus Christ in the book of Revelation—cowardice and fear.

The sin of being a coward and being afraid are so serious that they can actually keep you out of heaven. The primary reason America is in a moral free fall and continuing to slide into a moral abyss is because the church and Christians have been afraid to stand for the truth in spirit of love. It is time the Christian church in America to ruthlessly examine their hearts and admit before God that they have been complicit in Satan’s destruction of America.

The church must recognize its role in today’s spiritual warfare, acknowledging where it has failed and rising to the challenge of defending truth in a law-abiding, peaceful, and spiritual manner.

Millions witnessed Trump’s words after the attempt on his life, as he continued to proclaim “Fight, fight, fight!” I believe this was not just a political message but a divine call to action for the American church. If we are to prevent the collapse of our nation into moral chaos, we must heed this prophetic word. Now is the time for a great awakening among believers.

The Prophetic Trumpet: A Call to the Church

Just as President Trump issued his rallying cry to “Fight, fight, fight!”, the Bible often uses the imagery of a trumpet to signal a call to action. Throughout Scripture, trumpets were used to gather God’s people, announce warnings, and signal impending events. The name “Trump” itself is significant, as it is connected to this biblical imagery. In many ways, Trump’s words, like a prophetic trumpet, are a call for the church to awaken from its spiritual slumber.

The American church is at a crossroads. Millions are praying for an end-times great awakening, and Trump’s call to “fight” may well be the catalyst for such a revival. The church must rise in the power of the Holy Spirit, shedding its fear and complacency, and actively engage in the spiritual battle that is unfolding. This awakening will not be easy, but it is necessary if America is to be saved from the forces seeking to destroy it from within.

Apathy: The Root of America’s Spiritual Decline

At the heart of America’s current spiritual crisis is apathy. The church, by and large, has chosen to ignore the warnings and has failed to engage with the issues threatening the nation. This indifference has allowed evil to flourish, unchecked by the influence of God’s people.

Repentance is the key to breaking this stronghold. Just as the great revivals of the past were sparked by deep repentance and prayer, so too must we turn to God now, crying out for His mercy and intervention. The “40 Days to Save America” campaign of prayer, fasting and repentance led by leaders like Troy Anderson, Pastor Paul Begley and Dr. Larry Keefauver, is a powerful step in this direction. From September 26 to November 5, 2024, Christians across the nation are being called to unite in prayer, seeking God’s guidance and protection as America approaches a critical election.

This movement is inspired by the prophetic words of the late Billy Graham, who warned of America’s “Nineveh Moment”—a time when the nation must repent or face destruction, which Troy Anderson featured in The Trump Code. Just as the people of Nineveh turned back to God and were spared, so too can America, if we heed this call to repentance.

Conclusion: The Time to Act Is Now

America is at a pivotal moment in its history. The spiritual battle being waged over the soul of the nation is intensifying, and the stakes could not be higher. As Christians, we must answer the call to fight—not with violence, but with prayer, fasting, and the bold proclamation of truth. President Trump's words, "Fight, fight, fight!" echo the call of the Holy Spirit to His people: rise up, repent and engage in the battle for America's future.

The future of this nation is not predetermined. Through the prayers of God's people and the power of His Spirit, we can shape a new era of revival and restoration. But we must act now, before it's too late. The prophetic words have been spoken. Will we listen?
