

The UN's Dirty Dozen List as Compared to Nazi Germany

The United Nations has gotten down and dirty in its latest dealings with Israel.

When the U.N. Human Rights Council decided to release a dirty dozen list, and 94 out of the 112 businesses on the blacklist were Jewish, it was very hard not to be suspicious.

Well, I have news for the U.N.—this is not 1933, and we are not in Nazi-controlled Germany.

Truth or fiction?: Businesses that operate in Israel's biblical Heartland (falsely called the West Bank) support Palestinian livelihood. In today's show, we'll examine the United Nations Human Rights Council's recent blacklist of businesses that operate in or support Judea and Samaria, Israel.

Not surprisingly, this latest move by the U.N. is an attempt to boycott Israel, limit their growth and expansion, and ultimately suppress them. We are calling it what it is, though: Jew hatred.

In today's show, after revealing the blatant and bigoted Jew hatred from the U.N., we'll take you down a modern-day road in Israel's heartland that travels back through time, all the way past the New Testament, and find its beginnings with Abraham. Did you know that more than 80% of your Bible was either written or occurred in the place that so much of the world is fighting against?

At the end of the day, no peace deal, even if meant for Israel's good, has the right to divide the land of Israel, including Jerusalem, Judea and Samaria, Israel's biblical heartland.

God's covenant that He made with Abraham in Genesis 12 is still valid. As long as God still has a covenant with the sun, moon and stars, that's how long His promises will stand with Israel.

As Christians, our responsibility is to stand with God's Word.
