

This Evil Is Only the Tip of the Iceberg

Planned Parenthood has certainly been in the news as of late. The videos by the Center for Medical Progress have exposed an extremely sadistic side of PP that most people outside of the pro-life movement never knew about.

Now there are cries from so many people, even presidential candidates like Ted Cruz, to defund Planned Parenthood. One presidential candidate said Planned Parenthood isn't all bad, but he is against abortion. On some level, at least 17 presidential candidates are decrying the Planned Parenthood abortion/harvesting agenda.

As an evangelist and a civil rights voice, a black post-abortive mother born into a pro-life family, I'm sounding the alarm.

What many people don't understand is that if you are willfully killing pre-born babies and even born-alive babies, and are actively working to expand that aspect of your business, then you're willing to do anything, even breaking the law, to make more money. That's the legacy of Planned Parenthood founder Margaret Sanger. Thanks to her, Planned Parenthood is America's largest abortion provider and apparently a major harvester of human body products.

Abortion is an intrinsic evil; It only stands to reason that any organization involved in abortions would also be involved in other evil acts.

Although many of the programs PP administers sound good on the surface, like the harvesting of baby body parts for "research," they must be looked at under the microscope of their overall anti-procreative philosophy.

As American Life League noted on their STOPP website:

The Planned Parenthood Federation of America (PPFA) has, since 1970, pushed for sex education in public schools. In 1986, its president, Faye Wattleton, stated that PPFA had established a goal of getting kindergarten through 12th-grade sex education mandated in every school district in the nation. Planned Parenthood sees sex education as a way of indoctrinating our children with Planned Parenthood's philosophies—philosophies that include the acceptance of abortion and deviant sexual practices, philosophies that are in direct opposition to the teachings of most churches in this country.

As it stands now, Planned Parenthood receives over a half-billion, that's right, a half-billion, tax-payer dollars through Title X Family Planning grants. This is the figure that gets thrown out when most people discuss defunding Planned Parenthood. Yet it is a very subtle attack on natural human sexuality, procreation, marriage and family.

Consequently, what most people don't talk about ...
