

This Is Satan's Next Step for America

Slaughtering anything that threatens what people value is next on Satan's plan for America.

I've been saying for years that we are moving closer and closer to a reality in our nation that includes killing children well after they have been born. The only requirement for that medically sanctioned prescription to kill our children is proof of hardship, threat or inconvenience. If our way of living is negatively affected by our children, the option to eliminate them may be afforded us if something doesn't change, and fast.

Many are shocked that certain politicians are unapologetically promoting the act of killing children who survived abortions, but I am not. I'm disgusted. I'm grieved. I'm enraged. But I'm not shocked.

It was reported that every person who has announced their candidacy for the 2020 presidential election has supported legislation that legalizes the killing of children who were delivered alive during an abortion procedure. This includes Sens. Kirsten Gillibrand, New York; Cory Booker, New Jersey; Kamala D. Harris, California; Amy Klobuchar, Minnesota; Elizabeth Warren, Massachusetts; and Bernie Sanders, I-Vermont.

President Trump tweeted:

"Senate Democrats just voted against legislation to prevent the killing of newborn infant children. The Democrat position on abortion is now so extreme that they don't mind executing babies AFTER birth," "This will be remembered as one of the most shocking votes in the history of Congress. If there is one thing we should all agree on, it's protecting the lives of innocent babies.”

Prophetic Intercessory Midwives

“When you perform the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women and see them on the stools, if it is a son, then you must kill him, but if it is a daughter, then she may live.” However, the midwives feared God, and did not do as the king of Egypt commanded them, but kept the male children alive (Ex. 1:16-17).

As with the midwives in the story of the Exodus, God is raising up a prophetic people who will intercede. They will not only stand in the gap, but they will stand in the way of the slaughter. They were driven by the fear of the Lord, something the church of our nation must discover if we are to have any hope of resisting the suffocating darkness that is taking over our nation.

I’m doubling down on the cry for the fear of the Lord to come to our church and our nation. It’s very good to contend for a revelation of God’s love, but to do so at the exclusion of the terror of the Lord will result in a permissive church and a casual response. I envision sober moments of godly fear descending on church services, solemn assemblies, in bars and in the middle of sporting events and Hollywood’s award ceremonies. Instead of thanking God from behind a podium as celebrities hold a statue in their hand, let’s contend for a tremble that shakes them and us to our very core. The fear of the Lord will cause our idols to fall and our knees to buckle as we repent and weep for mercy.

Like today’s selfish generation, 3400 years ago Pharaoh had a reason for concern. God was raising up a people who would overthrow his authority and who would finally demand deliverance from his abuse and tyranny. He was drunk on power and anything that threatened his position would have to be eliminated.

We must contend in prayer for a generation of prophetic intercessory midwives to rise up and defy the call for bloodshed. The church must awaken. We can sleep no longer. The plans for annihilation have been expertly drawn up by a crafty, murderous enemy of God, and a rescue mission must be initiated by a selfless, surrendered and prophetic church.

Massacre of the Innocents

Then Herod, when he saw that he had been tricked by the wise men, was utterly furious and sent forth and killed all the male children who were in Bethlehem and the surrounding region, from two years old and under, based on the time which he had diligently inquired of the wise men (Matt. 2:16).

Like Pharaoh, the arrival of Jesus threatened King Herod, and he responded by ordering the execution of every male child aged 2 years and younger.

As horrific as that was, I propose the direction we are heading is more disturbing and vile. In the early days of Jesus, Herod killed children whom mothers and fathers wanted to keep. Today, mothers and fathers are killing children themselves. However, the reasons remain the same—the children threatened the lifestyle and power of Herod, and today they threaten the lifestyles and power of entitled, self-indulged and reckless Americans.

In addition to the response I addressed above, this biblical account makes something else clear: We must hear God's voice and respond with expediency.

Now when they departed, the angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, saying, "Arise, take the young Child and His mother, and escape to Egypt, and stay there until I bring you word. For Herod will seek the young Child to kill Him."

When he rose, he took the young Child and His mother by night, and departed into Egypt, and remained there until the death of Herod, to fulfill what the Lord had spoken through the prophet, "Out of Egypt I have called My Son" (Matt. 2:13-15).

What is God revealing to his people today? The midwives were ordained to intercede and resist. The response in this story, however, is different. Is it possible that, as with Jesus, Mary and Joseph, there may come a time to flee, to go underground? That very well may be what must happen. The key, however, isn't to react. It's to respond to the leading of God's voice. We must have an army of surrendered soldiers who are keenly aware, discerning and ready to respond to what the Spirit of the Lord is saying.

The Next Step—Holocaust

When Haman saw that Mordecai neither bowed nor paid him homage, he was filled with rage. But he disdained to lay hands on only Mordecai, since they had told him of the people of Mordecai. So Haman sought to destroy all the Jews throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus (Esth. 3:5-6).

If it's beneficial to the leaders of culture, politics and leaders of our nation to kill the unborn, the unborn will die.

If it's beneficial to kill children aged 2 years and younger, those children will die.

If it's beneficial to kill a segment of society that is standing in the way of what the rest of society desires, they will die.

That is, unless the church responds in the spirits of Mordecai and Esther.

Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There exists a scattered people dispersed among the other peoples in all the provinces of your kingdom. Their laws are different from all others, and they are not complying with the king's laws, so there may not be a suitable reason for the king to allow them to exist (Esth. 3:8).

In our rapidly degrading society, we should know that society will stop tolerating champions of righteousness. It will not be to the nation's profit to tolerate us, just as it was with the Jews with both Haman and Hitler.

So the king and Haman entered to feast and drink with Queen Esther. The king repeated to Esther what he had said on the previous day while drinking wine, "For what are you asking, Queen Esther? It shall be granted to you. Now, what is your request? Even if it is half of the kingdom, it will be done!"

Queen Esther replied, "If I have found favor in your sight, O king, and if it pleases the king, at my petition, let my life be given me, and my people at my request. For we have been sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be slain, and to be annihilated. If only we had been sold as male and female slaves, I could have kept quiet, for that distress would not be sufficient to trouble the king."

Then King Ahasuerus answered and demanded of Queen Esther, "Who is he, and where is he, who would dare presume in his heart to do so?"

Esther said, "This wicked Haman is the adversary and enemy!"

Then Haman was seized with terror before the king and the queen (Esth. 7:1-6).

In the account of Esther, victory against the wicked schemes of the enemy did come. The victory was finalized as the king, Haman and Esther dined—resulting in Haman being hung on the gallows designed for Mordecai. This victory can be ours if we respond with mourning, lament and a cry in our hearts. God can turn it around!

“Then the king said, ‘Hang him on it!’ So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai. Then the king’s wrath was pacified” (Esth. 7:10).

Those of you who know the account of the Holocaust know that there was a massive loss and a great price was paid. Millions died in unthinkable ways as Satan raged.

The takeaway? We can’t sit back and presume all is well and that victory is guaranteed. It is not. The ovens that were put in place by Hitler could pale in comparison to what enemies of God could do today.

We have already experienced a holocaust in America, with over 55 million unborn babies being executed. We are now crossing the line into the realm of the born. Don’t think it’s not likely to see children who escaped the womb being targeted. Don’t presume the elimination of Christians is too far-fetched for our ungodly leaders to plan today.

We are living in a tremendously threatening and evil time. The church has not responded sufficiently enough—not even close.

It’s time for midwives to resist, to hear God’s voice and to respond with urgency.

If we don’t, today’s politicians and liberal, ungodly voices will continue to cry out not only for the massacre of the innocents, but of anyone who stands in their way.
