

This Stunning Moment Between Father and Daughter Will Make You Sob

Torri Biddle refused to let her disability run her life. She played sports, hung out with friends and even fought for human rights ... all without her arm.

When she attended an Invisible Children Summit, she discovered the Christian organization had partnered with The Buried Life to fulfill her life-long dream: hugging her father.

Biddle was close to her father, certainly, but had never fully embraced him because she had no arm. Now, the memory has been captured for posterity in this touching video.
