

Tim Tebow Puts NFL Return in God's Hands

Could Tim Tebow be vying for another quarterback spot this season? It sure looks like he's training hard enough to make the cut.

Indeed, if his workout ethic is any indication he would be in prime condition to suit up when football season starts in September.

Of course, Tebow is not forcing anyone's hand—especially not God's.

“One of my favorite quotes is, ‘I don't know what my future holds, but I know Who holds my future,’” he told KSAZ-TV. “And that it gives you peace to just continue to work and go after what your heart desires, and when you do that you don't have any regrets and I think that's the best way to live life.”

Would you like to see Tebow back in the NFL?