

Tomi Arayomi's 9-Year Prophecy, Israel and What's Coming for America

In an exclusive interview with Charisma News, Tomi Arayomi opens up about the prophecies God has been placing on his heart, including for Israel and for the next few years of what's headed our way to America.

"I had an encounter two, three years ago, where I saw the Lord striking; He had a clock and it looked like the Big Ben in London," Arayomi says. "[God said] Tell them you have nine years left, and nine years is going to feel like nine months, and nine months are going to feel like nine minutes."

This word in itself came to Arayomi a few years ago, meaning that the time is getting short, especially since some of Arayomi's vision was specifically about Israel.

"I saw a vivid picture of Netanyahu losing his position, and then through some backbench betrayal, and then in a later video, I saw him regaining his position," Arayomi says. "But I saw that the reason he needed to regain his position was because of Iran. It was very clear to me that he was the only one that could lead Israel through the Iranian conflict. I also became uniquely aware that prayer was going to help reestablish him."

One of the keys to this prophetic vision isn't just that Netanyahu would be in this position, but that the key player that must be looked at throughout this entire war is Iran.

“And the Lord said, ‘Expose Hamas,’” Arayomi says. “I said, ‘What do You mean, expose Hamas?’ He says, ‘It’s not Hamas. This is Iran.’”

In addition to these timely elements, Arayomi says God showed him that as the time was counting down from these critical nine years, specific things would happen, including the end of Roe v. Wade and a clash between the narrative of global warming with a real-world crisis.

“So it wasn’t seven years to sit back and relax,” he says. “It was more like seven years to reposition ourselves in a place of relevance.”

This hits the church in a hard spot, as the focus over the past few years for many has been about increasing numbers and size for clout instead of prevailing for the truth of the gospel. In fact, one of the biblical warnings Arayomi identifies is the need for a prophetic and apostolic generation.

“The Bible says chaff and wheat, let both grow together. And so, we can either watch the chaff grow, or we can actually plant the wheat in spite of the chaff,” Arayomi says. “And so I think that prophetically, the Lord’s looking ... we need a prophetic and apostolic generation.”

As we get closer each day to the return of Christ, it is essential that we be prepared for all things that we could encounter in these last days. Most of all, we must never take our eyes off of Jesus, ready for His coming approach at all times. {eoa}
