Prophecy: What's the Frenzy Surrounding Sept. 24?

What's going to happen on Sept. 24? There's a swirl in end-times prophecy circles about an ominous announcement from a member of the German government.

Why Are Walmart and Other Retailers Canceling Billions of Dollars in Orders?

Do they know something that they aren't telling us? As you will see below, Walmart, Target and other major U.S. retailers are literally canceling billions of dollars in orders ahead of the coming holiday season.

I have never heard of such a thing happening before, and under normal conditions, it wouldn't make any sense at all. The holiday season is typically the busiest time of the year for retailers, and at this time in 2021, there was actually a great deal of concern that there wouldn't be enough inventory due to global supply chain problems. But now everything has changed. All of a sudden major retailers are feverishly canceling orders, and this would only make sense if a severe economic downturn was imminent.

For example, Walmart is admitting that it has canceled "billions of dollars in orders" as we approach the upcoming holiday season: "John David Rainey, Walmart's EVP and CFO, said it had cleared most summer inventory, was reducing exposure in electronics, home and sporting goods, and canceled 'billions of dollars in orders ' to realign inventories. He said, 'Our actions in Q3 will allow us to make significant progress toward rationalizing absolute levels and mix, which will enable our stores to be well positioned ahead of the holiday season.'"

King Charles III's Controversial Approach to Defender of the Faith

Charles III became king on Sept. 8, 2022 when his mother Queen Elizabeth II died. Two days later he was proclaimed king by the Accession Council of the United Kingdom. In 2023 King Charles will have his coronation. A coronation is a holy moment, where he will be anointed with oil and asked if he will maintain the Christian faith.

There has been a lot of speculation on how the king will operate in his position as the 'Defender of the Faith.' During Queen Elizabeth's reign, she was vocal about her Christian beliefs and dependency upon God.

Friday, the king met with leaders across multiple faiths to talk about the future of the role. "I have always thought of Britain as a 'community of communities' that has led me to understand that the sovereign has an additional duty—less formally recognized but to be no less diligently discharged," the king said in the meeting.

How Five Red Heifers Got the World Talking About the End Times

The world sat up with anticipation when five red heifers arrived at Ben-Gurion airport Thursday, September 15. These rabbi-approved bovine have sparked end-times conversations, and renewed interest in the possibility of the Third Temple being built in Jerusalem.

For the Orthodox Jewish community, this is viewed as one step closer to practicing the Mosaic law as dictated in Numbers 19:2, "This is the statute of the law which the Lord has commanded, saying: 'Tell the children of Israel that they will bring you a healthy red heifer, which has no blemish, and on which a yoke has never gone.'"

These heifers meet the criteria, as the American ranchers who sent them to Israel from Texas did not even tag the ears of the cattle. This ensured their pristine condition was maintained for rabbinical inspection.

'The Church Has Left the Building': History Worship Event in Times Square This Weekend

Sean Feucht and the 'Let Us Worship' crew are heading to Times Square, the heart of culture, to do what hasn't been done yet. "It's going to be really really powerful," Feucht says about their worship event on Sept. 25 in New York City.

Starting at 5:00 pm Feucht and his team are going to gather together to worship, pray, give altar calls and believe for healings and miracles. Hundreds of thousands of people walk through Times Square every day. "This specific place has an opportunity for us to have a lot of collateral kingdom damage, where a lot of onlookers and people are walking by," Feucht says.

As big cities across the country experience high crime and drug rates, Americans have been heading for the hills. A recent survey from Major Cities Chiefs Association reveals, violent crime overall has increased by 4.4% and the amount of violent offenses is much higher now than before the COVID pandemic. {eoa}
