

WATCH: Little Girl Goes 'Blah, Blah' Ballistic on Street Preacher

Didn't her mother teach her to not interrupt? A young girl in Salem, Massachusetts, started yelling over a street preacher when he was sharing the gospel last month.

When the preacher didn't "shut it," as she demanded, she took to yelling, "Blah, blah, blah," to drown out his words. Maybe she should have been the one to close her "pie hole," as she suggested the preacher do.

According to The Blaze, it's unclear if her parents or guardians were with her when the incident unfolded, but no one is seen in a video of the incident trying to stop her from interjecting. It is also not known what the preacher was saying before and after the brief exchange was recorded.