

WATCH: Glenn Beck Gets Real About Christian Entertainment

For Christianity to grow, it's vital Christians share their faith, but the problem is that Christians are now preaching to the faithful, Glenn Beck says, especially when it comes to Christian entertainment.

"I go to these movies, and I think, 'Who are you talking to?'" Beck says.

He continued, "I can't bring my friend who doesn't go to church because it's too in your face, and I don't know if church people get that."

Watch Beck talk with Doug Anderson, pastor of Rose Heights Church, about how to reach out to the unchurched.
