

Watch: President Trump Holds His First Meeting With a Full Cabinet

President Donald Trump railed at Senate Democrats, who he has labeled “obstructionists,” for failing to approve many of his sub-Cabinet nominees to fill government positions during his first meeting ever with a full Cabinet on Monday.

He updated the media who were in attendance on a number of agenda issues. Then, he allowed Vice President Mike Pence and each of his Cabinet members to speak. You can see the whole gathering in the video clip above. {eo}
