

What the Trans-Pacific Partnership Means for the End Times

Pacific Rim countries—including the United States—are joining forces for the Trans-Pacific Partnership, a move some think could be indicative of the trend toward a one-world government.

Among them are Pastor Jim Bakker and Michael Snyder, author of the Economic Collapse Blog.

The partnership promotes trade between Pacific Rim countries and will determine the future of global trade, according to its website.

“Well, we’re moving toward this one-world economic system with this treaty and others,” Snyder says.

Snyder says most people are looking for an obvious sign—such as the Antichrist appearing on the television reading the end-time prophecies word for word.

Yet, these same people are ignoring the steps leading the world toward prophetic fulfillment—such as the TPP, Snyder says.

Watch the video to see more.