

What was the Massive Fireball that Rocked New York?

Earlier this week, people in New York, Connecticut and New Jersey had a bizarre experience when what appeared to be a giant fireball zoomed across their skies, moving in with a boom and shaking the earth.

The NASA Meteor Watch posted on Facebook that this fireball hit the area on Tuesday morning, moving at 38,000 miles per hour.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

“We now have the meteor originating over New York City and moving west into New Jersey. Speed has bumped up a bit to 38,000 miles per hour,” the post read.