

What Would You Ask TBN's Paul and Jan Crouch?

What would you ask Paul and Jan Crouch if you were able to interview them? I have that privilege on Friday.

Over the last four decades, I've interviewed people from every walk of life, including President George W. Bush and Oral Roberts. I've been on the Trinity Broadcasting Network (TBN) show numerous times, and they have interviewed me.

But on Friday, I have the opportunity for a significant first: After years of working in the same market as Paul and Jan, founders of TBN, I'll interview them together. TBN will be celebrating its 40th anniversary this May, and the Crouches have given us an exclusive interview.

I was inspired by the presidential debates last fall when they asked ordinary people to submit questions on YouTube and then asked the candidates those questions. Paul and Jan are among the highest-profiled and most-respected Christian leaders. They have had a profound impact on the body of Christ.

I plan on asking Paul and Jan about their past successes and future plans, but I also want you to be part of this "first" by helping me formulate questions for them. If you had a chance to sit down with the Crouches, what would you ask them?

This exclusive interview will be published in a question-and-answer format in the May issue of Charisma magazine, which coincides with TBN's 40th-anniversary celebration.

This is your opportunity to submit questions. Please write them below and we will go through them and pick the best ones to add to the questions that we already are planning. I think it should add a lot of interest and variety to our interview.
