

When Pat Schatzline Felt a Demonic Hand of the Enemy Removed From His Throat

Pat and Karen Schatzline are on a mission to put an altar in every single home.

To bring America to its knees in prayer and intercession, the Schatzlines believe every family should go to the altar in prayer. They know it's working because of the increased spiritual warfare in their own home since they started promoting the message.

"The enemy is fighting you over an encounter in your house," Pat said when he and his wife visited the Charisma House offices on Friday.

Since they started promoting their book, Rebuilding the Altar, the couple has come face to face with the demonic. In one instance, they saw a dark hooded figure in their backyard. In another, Pat lost his voice for six weeks.

When he went to the altar for prayer, he says he felt "a demonic hand of the enemy" removed from his throat.

They believe their message can change America, especially if families go to the altar.
