

When You Feel Like Giving Up, Hold Onto This Victorious Truth

Do you feel like giving up? Well, hold on! Dr. Sharon Mancha has an encouraging message that will motivate and help strengthen your faith in God. This episode of The Power of Intimacy With Christ is full of information and knowledge for building a deeper relationship with God and to help sustain you through the tough times in your life.

Mancha is passionate about sharing how to trust God in hard times and teaching you how to work through doubt and discouragement. She teaches how to deepen your love for Him and to enhance your dependence on Him for success in life and ministry. She has been through difficult seasons that have informed her understanding and faith for living a victorious life (Phil. 4:13).

Mancha has been tried in the fire and learned that yielding to God's quest of your heart is the most important decision you can make for safe passage through life's challenges. She proclaims that God is ever-present to help you survive and thrive during the hard seasons in life.

"I know that relationship with God empowers the whole life and provides a solid foundation for understanding and successfully engaging the world around us," Mancha says. She sees that relationship with God is necessary to experiencing ultimate joy and that out of this relationship flow all the resources for living a happy life (John 15:5).

Accepting the power of the cross and the authority transferred in Jesus' Resurrection is power for living the victorious life in Christ. Click here for more of Mancha's teaching about holding onto God during the tough times and always. {eoa}

Connect with Dr. Sharon Mancha at her website, and blog, Share this podcast with your Twitter followers using this link: