

Why the Pro-Life Battle is Not Over

The Supreme Court in a 6-3 decision on Friday overturned Roe v. Wade, the landmark ruling that established the constitutional right to abortion in the U.S. in 1973.

This is the fruit of decades of fervent prayer from pro-life intercessors and we're rightly celebrating in this hour as the giant of abortion has been toppled in America, at least temporarily.

I don't want to rain on anyone's parade, but I've said this for years: You can't legislate morality.

Liberal legislators have already thought through plans to minimize the impact of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to remove its blessing from abortion. And remember, before Roe v. Wade, women performed their own abortion in gruesome ways, including with wire hangers.

No, the pro-life battle is far from over. Awakening Prayer Hubs is still fighting!

Prophetically speaking, if we stop praying now we could quickly lose ground. Despite the Supreme Court's ruling, states still have the right to set their own abortion laws.

The enemy wants us to get so caught up in celebrating that we put our swords down. That would be a grave error. I've taught for years that we must pray all the way through the breakthrough. Roe v. Wade dying is a major breakthrough but it's not the ultimate breakthrough.

No, the ultimate breakthrough is when women no longer want to kill their babies. The ultimate breakthrough is when scared women turn to Jesus and find salvation. The ultimate breakthrough is when the church rises up and helps provide adoption solutions so women have an alternative other than abortion. You get the idea.
