

Why You May Want to Stop Letting Your Kids Watch ‘Arthur’

On the premiere of the 22nd season of the PBS animated series “Arthur,” Mr. Ratburn—the kids’ third-grade teacher—came out as gay when he married another male character, an aardvark named Patrick.

“It’s a brand-new world,” one of the kids declared during the wedding.

Arthur and his friends, Muffy, Francine and Buster, attended the wedding, intrigued by the idea —like most children are—that their teacher had a life outside the classroom.

Click here to read the rest of this story from our content partners at Faithwire.

Listen to the podcasts to hear how men and women were set free from homosexuality.