

Will Food Shortages Drive us to Eat Bugs?

When it comes to the lunch menu most schools tend to stick to tried-and-tested classics, but some pupils in Wales are being served up bug Bolognese for their lunch, according to Yahoo Life UK.

The idea is to replace beef.

This news comes at the same time ranchers are selling off their cattle in unprecedented numbers due to the drought. Michael Snyder of “End of the American Dream” says this has enormous implications for 2023.

We are truly living in the end times.

While Bill Gates is buying up farmland in America, children in Wales are part of an experiment to save the planet—by eating bugs.

And who is right there to support the cause? Greta Thunberg, the young Swedish environmental activist who is known for challenging world leaders to take immediate action for climate change migration. Listen in to her pitch for why we should eat creepy crawlies like contestants on Survivor.

Listen to the podcast to hear the audio.

Jennifer LeClaire is an internationally recognized author, apostolic-prophetic voice to her generation and conference speaker. She carries a reforming voice that inspires and challenges believers to pursue intimacy with God, cultivate their spiritual gifts and walk in the fullness of what God has called them to do. Jennifer is contending for awakening in the nations through intercession and spiritual warfare, strong apostolic preaching and practical prophetic teaching that equips the saints for the work of the ministry. Jennifer is senior leader of Awakening House of Prayer in Fort Lauderdale, FL, founder of the Ignite Network and founder of the Awakening Prayer Hubs prayer movement.