

‘Wonder Years’ Star Grateful for New Relationship with Jesus Christ: ‘It Feels Miraculous’

Read time: 1 minute 44 seconds

“Wonder Years” star Danica McKellar recently discussed her faith and how her life was changed forever this year after receiving Jesus Christ as her Lord and Savior.

The 47-year-old joined Great American Family actress Candace Cameron Bure on Bure’s podcast to discuss faith and how they celebrate Christmas.

They didn’t get far into the conversation before McKellar thanked Bure for a small gift that had a huge impact on her life.

“Candace, I don’t wanna brush over the huge, huge impact that you’ve had on my life this year,” McKellar said. “I don’t even know how to call that like friendship, it’s more than that. Because of you helping me to find my relationship with God and Jesus, it’s been like a revolution in my life. It’s been a revelation in my life.”

She continued, “You gave me this Bible that I read all the time and I love it so much and I go to church now and I just, I talk to Jesus all the time every day. It’s unbelievable. And you were like my guide. You were just an angel in my life and you still are. And I just wanna thank you for that publicly.”

As CBN News reported, McKellar posted an Instagram live video in April where she admitted to being skeptical about Christianity for much of her life.

In that video, she shared she had a change of heart after talking with Bure.

“It all started one evening when I was struggling with the idea of forgiveness and DM’d my good friend @candacecbure about a passage from the Bible she had read on her instastories, and then she sent me a Bible, and invited me to church,” she shared at the time.

Responding to McKellar’s post, Bure wrote, “God’s love is bigger than any human love and when He sweeps you up in understanding how powerful it is, because He is, it’s undeniable. Praying for you on your journey and relationship with Jesus my sweet friend.”

McKellar, who grew up around religion, says she only experienced the negative side of it.

To read the rest of the article visit out content partners at . {eoa}

Reprinted with permission from . Copyright © 2022 The Christian Broadcasting Network Inc. All rights reserved.

Bring Charisma magazine home with a subscription today!