

Work Place Violence or Islamic Terrorism?

Six years ago, Nidal Malik Hasan, a radicalized Muslim, shouted “Allah Akbar,” killed 13 and wounded 30 on the Fort Hood military base. Yet our government branded this an act of workplace violence rather than an act of Islamic terror, and that has been our pattern with other violent acts on our soil since then.

Why?