

'God is on the Move': Kansas City Chiefs Family Shares Their Faith

As the Kansas City Chiefs prepare for their return to the Super Bowl, Tavia Hunt, the wife of the team's owner, Clark Hunt, has taken to Instagram to share her appreciation for what God has done.

Sharing a screenshot about a Bob Jones prophecy involving the Chiefs, Hunt's post describes how victory by the Chiefs was prophesied to be a sign of a coming revival.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

In 2019, we learned of a prophecy from Bob Jones, who wrote that when the Kansas City Chiefs won the Super Bowl it would be a sign of end time revival. Since that victory, we've witnessed incredible revival across this country and the world. College and NFL players are boldly proclaiming their faith, and there is incredible revival happening on college campuses (see Unite_US). God is on the move, life is short, and we know that we are to use this platform for His glory.

Times are uncertain, but one thing remains true: Jesus saves, and we all need more of Him. In this historic moment, let's not miss the person who changed history and gained the ultimate victory – the one Jesus won for us on the cross. Thanks be to God for all that He's done and continues to do. To God be the glory!

In Hunt's caption, she also shared how she has been reflecting on God's great favor and faithfulness. After seeing seasons of defeat, He has placed the Chiefs in a position to rise above the rest.