

You Don't Need Another Confirmation, You Need Obedience

You've been praying about the same thing for months.

And God already answered.

You know what He said.

You might not like the timing. You might not feel ready. But the instruction was clear.

So now you're praying the same prayer on repeat, hoping He'll say something different. Something easier. Something with less risk.

That's not faith. That's a negotiation.

In the book, The Power To Prosper, I talk about how delayed obedience is disobedience. Partial obedience is disobedience. Negotiated obedience is disobedience.

God isn't asking for your version of His vision for your life. He's looking for people who will move fully, immediately, and joyfully when He speaks. Because the blessing is always on the other side of the obedience. Not on the side of the second opinion.

First Samuel 15:22 says, "To obey is better than sacrifice."

God isn't impressed by how much you sacrifice on your own terms. He's moved by whether you'll surrender to Him.

Write down the last thing you know God told you to do. If you haven't done it, do it today. That's the fastest route to everything you've been asking for.
