

2 Christian Brothers Stabbed to Death in Pakistan Over Car Sticker

Two Christian brothers have been stabbed to death in the Pakistani city of Lahore over a trivial family disagreement.

Javed and Suleman Masih were killed when a pair of Muslim men broke into their home, according to a Catholic charity, Aid to the Church in Need. The murders appear to have arisen from a dispute between two families of differing faiths.

The father of the Christian men said he attempted to sort out the situation in a civil manner prior to the attack taking place – but his efforts were in vain.
