

6 Hospitalized After Bus Crashes Into Church

Six people were injured after a bus crashed into a church Wednesday afternoon.

The bus driver says she lost control of the vehicle when another driver cut her off, according to reports. The bus hit a power pole before smashing into the First Church of Our Lord Jesus in Newport News, Virginia.

The church was empty at the time of the crash, local news sources report.

Five passengers and the bus driver were taken to the hospital for minor injuries.
