

‘A Dark Moment for America’: Trump Addresses the Nation After Charlie Kirk’s Assassination

Charlie Kirk, who was assassinated on Wednesday in Utah at the age of 31, was honored by President Donald Trump in a video message from the Oval Office.

In the message, Trump said he was consumed by both “grief and anger” at the politically motivated killing of one of the conservative movement’s brightest stars.

“This is a dark moment for America,” the president said. “He’s a martyr for truth and freedom and there’s never been anybody who was so respected by youth.”

“For years, those on the radical left have compared wonderful Americans like Charlie to Nazis and the world’s worst mass murderers and criminals,” Trump added.
