

America Dodged a Bullet: A Vice President Supported by Satanists?

America came far too close to a chilling reality: having a vice president openly supported by Satanists.

A plaque now hanging in the Minnesota State capitol building, courtesy of a Satanic group, thanks Minnesota Governor Tim Walz his support. The plaque reads: “The Democratic Coalition of Satan Worshipers thanks Gov. Tim Walz for not standing in the way of spreading Satanism in the State Capitol Building. Satan has a special place for you.”

Satanic worshipers have honored Minnesota Governor Tim Walz with a plaque, celebrating his refusal to oppose the spread of Satanism at the State Capitol.

The plaque, featuring the image of Baphomet, expresses gratitude from a Democrat-aligned coalition of Satan worshipers.

Let that sink in. This isn't some fringe internet stunt; it's real, and it shows just how deep the spiritual warfare runs in the United States today.

The plaque was installed following a Satanic holiday display placed inside the capitol back in December. Walz's defense of the display comes under the guise of “religious neutrality,” a legal requirement for government buildings in Minnesota. But let's be honest, when Satanism is being celebrated inside a state capitol, it's a clear sign of how far America has drifted from its foundations.

Instead, by the grace of God, Donald Trump returned to the White House in 2025. Now, prayer, praise and worship have filled the halls of the White House, a stark and beautiful contrast to the darkness that nearly took hold.

This has never been just about politics, it's about spiritual warfare. The plaque hanging in Minnesota's capitol should serve as a loud and urgent wake-up call: the battle is here, and the enemy is fiercely fighting the ways of God.
