

Are Americans Being Forced to Choose Between Their Jobs and Their Lives?

Candace's employer forced her to get the shot. Four months later, she cannot lift her arm.

Joseph's employer forced him to get the shot too. He had an allergic reaction and dropped dead.

People are illegally and unlawfully being forced to take a dangerous experimental drug or lose their jobs ... but some are losing much more. Read on to learn how Liberty Counsel is fighting to save lives.

As major corporations continue to follow Joe Biden's mad insistence to put a COVID needle in every arm, employees are now paying the cost with not only their jobs but also with their health and their lives.

Candace was faced with the choice we are hearing over and over from desperate people—she had to choose between the shot or her job.

Candace received her last dose of Pfizer on April 8. Upon receiving the shot, pain radiated throughout her arm and to her fingers before spreading throughout her shoulder and neck. Nothing has been able to relieve the pain or muscle weakness. Four months later, and Candace's once healthy arm is nearly useless, unable to lift anything.

Doctors have no solutions, simply an encouragement to “let it play out.”

Thomas also had to choose between his job or the jab—no exceptions allowed.

Douglas needed to support his family, so he got the shot ... and wound up losing his life. Douglas dropped dead of anaphylactic shock (a severe allergic reaction) just hours after the needle went into his arm.

Forced to choose between the jab or his job, Douglas lost his life.

This weekend, we received an email from someone else who had once been forced to take an experimental drug.

David is all too familiar with the dangers of forced vaccines. As a soldier in the U.S. military, David was forced to take what WAS a fully FDA approved, yet still experimental, vaccine for anthrax. That shot disabled David so completely that he had to leave military service and is now classified as a disabled veteran.

Despite his disability, David found a new career with Amtrak. But Amtrak just told David he, too, will have to take the COVID shot, no matter his disability, religious convictions or even the well-researched scientific studies he produced.

David writes that employees who seek exemption from the shot are being harassed with vaguely defined threats to their employment and being told the "myriad ways they plan to withhold pay and also to build a case for firing [shot refusers]" based on the time they will have to take off for testing.

David says this is discrimination. We say this is unlawful and illegal tyranny.

Don't let corporate America steal your freedom and endanger your life with a forced experimental drug.

As of Aug. 13, 2021, the COVID shots have caused 595,620 injuries 54,142 hospitalizations and 13,068 deaths reported to VAERS, the CDC and FDA tracking system.

And the CDC and a Harvard study say the historical numbers represent less than 1% of the total VAERS numbers.

On Saturday and Sunday alone this past weekend, we received 630 desperate calls for help ... and that number grows daily.

Our staff is overwhelmed with the pleas of people desperate to protect their families from the COVID jabs while also protecting their jobs. We are preparing to file suit against some major corporations, as well as against a certain governor whose name you will recognize from our previous battles against tyranny. We will write more on these lawsuits soon.

In the meantime, we are working furiously to deliver and defend religious exemptions for students and employees nationwide. And we are winning. {eo}
