

Dual Ballot System Misleads Many

Just 61 days remain before an election that, according to many, is the most important election since Lincoln and will determine the direction of America for the next 50 years. If there were ever an impetus for believers to mobilize massive prayer and mobilize everyone they know to vote—every distant relative, college buddy and everyone in between—it is the just-released Bloomberg-funded report that is roiling Washington.

Put together by Hawkfish to set the stage for the massive election fraud now being prepared, this report is predicting a scenario exactly like the “blue shift” phenomena that has overturned elections in California. These nearly always play out with the “blue” Democrat winning after a Republican “red” win, with the simple principle of holding ballots, waiting for the initial outcome and then suddenly “finding” ballots that put the “blue” candidate over the top.

You will recall the recent discovery in Florida by a small business owner. She happens to live with a brother who is a Democrat. Just as she was working on her primary ballot, she noticed an “R” embedded in the bar code on her ballot and a “D” embedded in her brother’s. She realized anyone handling the ballots would know without opening them which ballots would be Republican and which would be Democratic. This is the system in which massive numbers of “red” ballots can be “lost” and massive numbers of “blue” can be conveniently “found” in just the right ratio to swing the election. This happened in California and many others states that allow the “ballot harvesting” program, in which political operatives are allowed to pick up ballots from individuals and submit them.

Hawkfish CEO John Mendelsohn flips the term “blue shift” and calls the phenomenon the “red mirage,” saying, “We are sounding an alarm and saying that the data is going to show an election night an incredible victory for Donald Trump, but when the legitimate vote is tallied and we get to that final day, which we will be some time after Election Day, it will in fact show that what happened on election night was exactly that: a mirage. It looked like Donald Trump was in the lead, and he fundamentally was not when every ballot gets counted.”

One of the amazing things about the Marxist deep state is that it clearly outlines its plan for any thinking person to see, and this time, it has once again clearly outlined what it plans to do in the upcoming election. Simply put, by mailings masses of ballots to lists known to be up to 20% incorrect, the deep state will generate a massive number of unused ballots, which will be pooled. After the initial election is completed, as happened in California and other states that allow ballot harvesting, these ballots will then be selectively “found” to alter the election results in massive fraud.

To make it simple, there are two types of mail voting systems, the first in which one can request an absentee ballot, which is fundamentally different from the similarly named “mail-in ballot” system.

To receive an absentee ballot, one has to personally request a ballot to vote, which is then sent to the residence, filled out and sent in. Mail-in voting, although it sounds similar, is a fundamentally different system in which mass mailing of ballots goes to state databases which contain a percentage as high as 10-20% of names of people who have died, moved and otherwise are no longer at the specific addresses.

Attorney General Bill Barr, appearing on CNN with veteran reporter Wolf Blitzer, put it succinctly, “This is sort of cheap talk to get around the fundamental problem, which is: The bipartisan commission chaired by Jimmy Carter and James Baker said back in 2009 that mail-in voting is fraught with the risk of fraud and coercion. And since that time, there have been in the newspapers, in [the] networks, academic studies saying it is open to fraud and coercion ... Elections that have been held with mail have found substantial fraud and coercion."

"This is playing with fire," continued Barr. "We're a very closely divided country here. And ... people have to have confidence in the results of the election and the legitimacy of the government. And people trying to change the rules to this methodology, which as a matter of logic is very open to fraud and coercion, is reckless and dangerous. And people are playing with fire."

Bestselling author of God, Trump and COVID-19, Stephen Strang, says, "If Christians don't turn out to vote in record numbers, the Left could win and reverse all the good that President Donald J. Trump has accomplished."

In just 61 days, unless there is a massive mobilization of prayer resulting in the 37 million believers who did not vote in 2016 voting for the president in such overwhelming numbers that the massive ballot fraud already underway can be dramatically overthrown, as Strang says, all the dramatic progress of this administration will come to a screeching halt. America will descend into what is happening in Portland, Seattle and the other cities that the anti-Christian, godless Marxists have already established as their base for the future they plan—if they can pull it off. {eo}
