

‘Brave German Woman’ Heidi Mund: Why I Rebuked Islam

Heidi Mund, an atheist-turned-Christian, has gained global notoriety for standing up to Islam’s creeping influence in her homeland, Germany.

Last November, when a Muslim imam was invited to give a call to prayer inside a historic German church, she stood and proclaimed “Jesus Christ alone is Lord of Germany,” before shouting, “I break this curse.”

Mund then repeated the words of Martin Luther in 1521, when he defended his belief in scripture alone:

“‘Here I stand,’” she quoted Luther. “‘I can do no other. Save the church of Martin Luther!’”

By publicly attacking the lie of Islam, she has placed her own life at risk. But Mund, who’s become known on the Internet simply as the “Brave German Woman,” explained she did it because she has a burden for the spiritual rebirth of Germany.

“Many people ask me, ‘Are you afraid of the Muslims?’ And I can only say, ‘No, I’m not afraid of them,’ ” she told CBN News.

“I know my God, the living God of the Bible can protect for me for as long as He wants,” she said. “When my time is over I will go to him.”

Mund shared more about why she risked her life to take a public stand for Christ on The 700 Club on Tuesday. Watch the video below.
