

CN Morning Rundown: Mike Lindell Vows to Keep Fighting Cancel Culture After Walmart Pulls MyPillow

Here's a quick summary of the top stories on :

Mike Lindell Vows to Keep Fighting Cancel Culture After Walmart Pulls MyPillow

MyPillow CEO Mike Lindell says Walmart is the latest retailer to remove his product from its store shelves.

During a live stream with Diamond and Silk on Thursday, Lindell said Walmart claims that ratings for MyPillow are too low to keep it in the stores.

Lindell said he previously spoke with a Walmart representative and suggested lowering the price of his pillows. He said a week later the representative finally got back to him and said the company was going to "drop MyPillow."

Elderly Church Member Dubbed 'Hero' After Halting Further Bloodshed

A story of heroism is emerging from the tragic Alabama church shooting that left three dead Thursday and shocked a community.

Vestavia Hills Police Capt. Shane Ware said Friday that the suspect, Robert Findlay Smith—who is accused of killing victims Walter Rainey, 84, Sarah Yeager, 75, and an unnamed 84-year-old woman—was subdued by a man inside Saint Stephen's Episcopal Church in Vestavia Hills, Alabama.

"The person that subdued the suspect, in my opinion, is a hero,” Ware said.

For Those Who Missed It, Jonathan Cahn’s Explosive Film Still Available for Viewing Through July

Ever since The Harbinger by New York Times bestselling author Jonathan Cahn was released in 2011, followed by The Harbinger II: The Return in 2020, people have been asking: “Has the mystery continued? Have more harbingers manifested? Is America closer than ever to judgment? What does the future hold?”

After years of holding back, Cahn finally dove deeper into the ancient mysteries that lie behind what is happening in America and the world today—and in the future. Cahn’s explosive new motion picture, The Harbingers of Things to Come, was a blockbuster success, topping the charts as one of the top five films viewed across the nation and the third highest per screen average for the two days it was featured in theaters.

The first showing alone saw the film rank number two at the box office as the second highest grossing film nationally. In total, the explosive motion picture saw almost 100,000 people in just two nights and grossed more than $1 million. {eo}

Read articles like this one and other Spirit-led content in our new platform, CHARISMA PLUS.