

CN Morning Rundown: Publishing Coup: Trump's First Post-Presidency Book Sales Triumph

Here's a quick summary of the top stories on :

Publishing Coup: Trump's First Post-Presidency Book Sales Triumph

Unlike what has typically happened with former presidents, no publisher would offer Donald Trump a book contract when he left office this January, per Axios. But in this season of Thanksgiving, the former president and longtime entrepreneur—who later signed with Winning Team Publishing, headed by Donald Trump Jr. and former Trump campaign aide Sergio Go—is no doubt grinning at the art of the deal. Sunday, Winning Team announced that Trump's new book, Our Journey Together, topped $1M in sales in its first 24 hours.

Congrats to our #1 author! President Donald Trump's new book OUR JOURNEY TOGETHER, over $1M in sales in just the FIRST 24 HOURS! (Over 9k hardcover copies) Avail now at All without any TV, radio or Amazon sales. Only President Trump could do this!

– Sergio Gor (@SergioGor) November 20, 2021

The book, featured here, includes 300-plus photographs of Trump's time in office, all chosen by Trump. "My father picked every single photo in this book, wrote all the captions, including some by hand," Trump Jr. told Axios.

Spirit-Filled Organization Defies the Odds and Sees Exponential Growth

Since its founding in 1998, Wagner University has sought to disrupt traditional seminary education. Founder Dr. C. Peter Wagner wanted to make seminary-level education available to more people regardless of past educational status. Realizing that God calls people to Christian service from all backgrounds, Wagner would be the door to ministry to anyone who felt called. Today, the global university is fulfilling that vision, serving thousands of students around the world through its unique online cohort, residential training and interactive community model of education that is disrupting the traditional seminary world.

While teaching at Fuller Theological Seminary for almost 30 years, Peter Wagner realized that only 25% of the population could receive the equipping education that Fuller, a traditional seminary, provided. Realizing that God was doing a new thing and calling more people to join the work of fulfilling the Great Commission, Wagner broke with tradition and launched what has now become a global university seeing incredible growth in China, South America and once again in the United States. Though he passed on to be with the Lord in 2016, his innovative spirit opened the doors for thousands of students to prepare and launch into ministry.

Today the global university has expanded to four continents with rapid growth happening in Asia (specifically China, Japan and South Korea) and South America.

‘The Voice’ Top 11 Singer Wows With Cory Asbury Megahit

Four-time Emmy musical-winning competition The Voice may have the song’s title wrong in this video, but former worship leader Jeremy Rosado got it all right in this heart-rending rendition of Cory Asbury’s “Reckless Love.”

Rosado, 29, and a resident of Tampa, Florida, served as the worship leader at Free Life Chapel there from 2015 to 2018.

He got that job just a few years after finishing 13th on the 11th season of American Idol back in 2012, per . He has shared the story on The Voice of taking over the challenge of raising his biological niece, Jocelyn, over whom he assumed guardianship at the young age of 21. Now that Jocelyn has graduated from high school, he feels the freedom to once again pursue his musical career. {eo}

Follow breaking news like this on our new platform, CHARISMA PLUS.