

Congress Secures Epstein Estate Documents

The House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform received documents from Jeffrey Epstein's estate following its issuing of a subpoena to the estate's executors.

The committee requested information and records that could be "reasonably construed to be a potential list of clients involved in sex, sex acts, or sex trafficking facilitated by Mr. Jeffrey Epstein," the subpoena read. The subpoena also requested documents related to "missed call logs or missed visitor logs" as well as connections to his "Black Book."

An aide to the committee provided Just the News with a statement on the matter: "The House Oversight Committee has received the first set of documents from the Epstein Estate in response to Chairman Comer's subpoena issued on August 25, 2025. Included in the documents received today are the birthday book compiled by Ghislaine Maxwell for Jeffrey Epstein's 50th birthday; the last will and testament of Epstein immediately preceding August 8, 2019; the September 24, 2007 non-prosecution agreement between the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of Florida and Epstein; entries from Epstein's address/contact books from January 1, 1990 through August 10, 2019; and information about Epstein's known bank accounts. Committee staff will review these documents and make them public in the near future."

President Trump filed a defamation lawsuit against The Wall Street Journal in July after the publication claimed he sent Epstein a birthday letter featuring a suggestive sketch.

“Hundreds of millions of people have already viewed the false and defamatory statements published by Defendants,” the lawsuit reads. “And given the timing of the Defendants’ article, which shows their malicious intent behind it, the overwhelming financial and reputational harm suffered by President Trump will continue to multiply.”

Upon filing the lawsuit, Trump wrote on Truth Social that the “powerhouse” lawsuit is “being brought against the so-called authors of this defamation, the now fully disgraced WSJ, as well as its corporate owners and affiliates, with Rupert Murdoch and Robert Thomson (whatever his role is!) at the top of the list.”
