

Could This Be the End to Abortion?

I am filled with hope today that an egregious wrong committed on the innocent has an opportunity to be righted. The sin of the shedding of innocent blood will finally have its day in court. I have partnered with my friends to pray and stand for the unborn. Will you join our movement?

Your participation is very important as we join through the airwaves of the world to pray and humble ourselves on Wednesday, Dec 1, 2021, the National Day of Repentance.

The Vision

As our nation looks on at the proceedings from the Supreme Court and the landmark abortion case of Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health, unity among those who advocate for life is at an all-time high. We come before our Father in humility and repentance on this solemn day, December 1st, the day of the oral arguments on this Supreme Court case. It will not only affect the state of life in the United States but it will also affect pro-life policies across the globe.

America has committed the four greatest sins that can bring national destruction:

We have forsaken God (1962 Supreme Court Prayer case);

Shedding innocent blood (1973 Roe and Doe);

Sexual immorality on a vast scale (repeatedly);

Greed

We must turn away from these things. Join believers across the nation for a solemn day of assembly and repentance. Whether you are joining the prayer events in Washington, D.C. or will be praying from home, let us repent, unify our hearts in humility and appeal to the Lord.

Many nations will connect through satellite television, UHF, VHF, radio and social media, Roku and other platforms to pray, humble ourselves, seek the face of our God and turn our hearts in surrender to Him and in an appeal for the end of abortion.

For other information, please view the website at .

Begin the day in prayer. There are a variety of actions you can take if you are in the Washington, DC area. If you are repenting and praying from home, be sure to watch our livestream on the website and pray along.
