

‘Dare 2 Share’ Holds Global Youth Outreach Saturday: ‘Let’s Ask God for Revival’

Imagine if thousands of teenagers shared God’s love in 70 different countries across the world for a day of global youth evangelism.

Organizers of Dare 2 Share Live, a national, one-of-kind, multi-site training and outreach event, are hoping to reach millions of young people with the gospel message on Nov. 11, 2023.

“With skyrocketing statistics of teen depression, anxiety and suicide, I believe we must do something radical to change the spiritual trajectory of this current generation of teenagers,” Dare 2 Share founder and CEO, Greg Stier, explains.

“Only the good news of Jesus can set them free from all they’re going through! That’s what Dare 2 Share LIVE is all about. It’s about reaching a generation with the hope of Jesus and then mobilizing them to reach their peers until every teen, everywhere, has every last chance to put their faith in Jesus,” he added.

For the last three decades, Stier has helped to organize a yearly event that encourages teens to get out in their community and share the gospel. And this year, more than 2,100 sites in 70 countries will host young people for Dare 2 Share Live.

desperately need an encounter with Jesus Christ,” said Stier. “The best ones to reach those teens are other teens that they know.”

This year’s event will provide on-demand video content from speakers like Zane Black, Jerrod Gunter, Gustavo González and Stier.

“When a teen is sharing the gospel, they are risking their social equity. They can be unfriended. They can be mocked. They can be marginalized. They can be ostracized. And that very risk, they’re dying to themselves and they’re picking up their cross and following Christ,” Stier first told CBN News in 2017.
