

Demonic Deception or Reality?: Possible Alien Sighting ‘Terrifies’ Family

Is this possibly more worldly deception as described in the Bible, as Joseph Z of Joseph Z Ministries explained in this recent interview with Charisma News, or is this really happening?

One thing is for sure: A Las Vegas family is taking what they saw and believed to be “a tall, skinny alien creature with greenish color” very seriously, a sight that they described as “no joke” and “terrifying.”

Fox News Digital reported that “authorities still don’t know exactly what crashed in Las Vegas that night, but there is evidence that something happened.”

Las Vegas police officers who responded to the 911 call interviewed three witnesses and found them to be “sober and credible,” renowned journalist George Knapp, who has broken some of the biggest UFO-related stories, told Fox News Digital. Knapp interviewed the family involved and “didn’t detect a hint of a hoax.”

“Metro police took it seriously,” Knapp said. “They searched the backyard, looked for physical evidence, canvassed the neighborhood for more witnesses, then returned day later for a follow-up. What really happened? We don’t know.”

One witness said the greenish creature was “about eight to 10 feet tall ... with a weird-looking face, big feet and big shiny eyes and a big mouth. I can hear its loud, deep breathing and its stomach kept moving.”

Joseph Z explained three theories on recent UFO sightings in this video and story on Charisma News recently.

In one of the theories he says, "I believe [what] could be happening is a fake alien scenario—augmented reality stuff, projections in the sky or things that many have heard of like Project Blue Beam, where they blast things up in the sky like the Spider Man movie. ... It's drones projecting an image that had a lot of reality behind that image. I believe that is a precursor to a Project Blue Beam type of thing.

"You see drones that go into the sky and they can write things in the air and do all kinds of amazing things, that's what the public sees," Joseph Z says. "And why would they do that? Because whoever controls the narrative can unite the world under what they want. I think there's a truth in that, that there will be more revealed or concealed to deceive the masses upon either the rapture or something else."

But that doesn't explain the "creatures" the Las Vegas family saw a few weeks ago.

One member of the family called 911 at 12:25 a.m. on May 1 and told the dispatcher that "large creatures were in his backyard. They're not human; 100% they're not human. I swear to God it is not a joke. It is actually real," he told the dispatcher.

Another officer's bodycam, dated April 30 at 11:50 p.m., captured a glowing, green light streak across the sky from the top right corner until it appeared to crash and disappear in the distance," Fox News Digital reports.

At least 21 people across eastern California, Arizona, Nevada and Utah reported seeing the glowing, green light, according to the American Meteor Society.

A witness, who was seen in the responding officer's bodycam, told his story in a YouTube video and shared pieces of the bodycam footage, a neighbor's doorbell camera that captured the loud bang and aftershock and a picture of a “perfect circle in his backyard purportedly left behind the aircraft,” Fox News digital reports.

“I turned around and saw a big light falling from the sky and moments after, I felt a big impact and a bang ... when the impact happened, it was like a shockwave,” he says. “It was all blurry. Not my vision, only the backyard, and I heard thousands of footsteps around me. A couple seconds later, the footsteps were gone.

“I know some people are not going to believe this,” the witness said in the YouTube video. “But this is what happened to me.” {eoa}
