

End Times Revelation: Are We Closer to the New World Order Than We Think?

Are we perhaps on the very edge of a New World Order?

Last night in President Trump's speech to a joint session of Congress, he discussed the topic of the U.S. acquiring Greenland, stating that America would get it "one way or another."

This comes at the same time that an agreement has been reached on the Panama Canal, another location that Trump has focused on since his re-election. According to the BBC, a company out of Hong Kong plans to sell most of its control over two canal ports to a group headed by BlackRock, Inc.

As Charisma News previously reported, a map dating to 1942 depicts what this "New World Order" could actually look like, and part of it includes Greenland, Mexico and Canada as part of a North American conglomerate. The Panama Canal also plays a vital role in bringing together this "New World Order."

So, what does this all mean? Will we see a united North America? Are we getting closer to a one world government?

It is undeniable that the pieces are shifting on the geopolitical chessboard, and whether by design or by divine appointment, America's role in shaping the future appears more significant than ever. With Greenland, the Panama Canal and broader North American integration in play, it seems that what was once dismissed as speculation may now be unfolding before our very eyes.

As believers, we must remain vigilant and discerning, watching not only the headlines but also the spiritual implications behind these developments. The Bible warns of a coming time when global powers will consolidate, setting the stage for events foretold in prophecy. Is this the beginning of such a shift?

Only time will tell, but one thing is certain: now is the time for the church to pray, to prepare and to stand firm in the truth of God's Word as the nations move toward an uncertain yet significant future.
