

Evidence Reveals Some Voter Spikes Are Statistically Impossible

Note: Evidence of election fraud continues to come to light. Read on to learn more about what we have found, and what former President Jimmy Carter warned 15 years ago.

According to the Pew Center, approximately 24 million (1 out of 8) voter registrations “are no longer valid or are significantly inaccurate ... more than 1.8 million deceased individuals are listed as voters ... approximately million people have registrations in more than one state.”

When the polls closed on Nov. 3, President Trump had a lead of around 100,000 votes in Wisconsin; 300,000 votes in Michigan and around 700,000 votes in Pennsylvania.

Then, after the polls closed on Nov. 3, former Vice President Biden got a huge vote spike in Pennsylvania of about 600,000 votes to only 3,200 for Trump.

In Michigan, at 3:50 a.m. ET, a data dump spike for Biden of 54,497 votes to Trump’s 4,718 took place. As of 6:31 a.m., the Biden spike was 141,258 votes to only 5,968 votes for Donald Trump.

In Wisconsin, at 3:42 a.m. CT, the Biden spike was 143,379 votes to only 25,163 votes for President Trump.

In Georgia, at 1:34 a.m. ET, the spike was 136,155 votes for Biden to only 29,115 votes for Trump.

These spikes are statistically impossible when President Trump was leading by such sizeable margins.

There are hundreds of sworn affidavits attesting to unexplained and impossible vote spikes after the polls closed and serious questions about the security of the Dominion Voting Systems hardware and software.

We will not rest until the 2020 election process is resolved. Holding free and fair elections lies at the foundation of a free society. Fraudulent elections are a threat to our freedom and national security.

If we sweep these concerns under the rug without proper investigation, then all future U.S. elections may become a farce.

“Americans are losing confidence in the fairness of elections.” Those are the words of former President Jimmy Carter and statesman James A. Baker III in their 2005 federal election report, “Building Confidence in U.S. Elections.”

The now 15-year-old investigation and report, organized by American University and co-chaired by the two statesmen, contains 104 pages of severe warnings that apparently went unheard. The report spends significant time reviewing the shortcomings of mail-in balloting and its ripeness for abuse. Now, 15 years later, we are facing the greatest election crisis of the modern era.

It is almost as if governors and secretaries of state willfully chose to enact each of the worst policies that President Carter warned about.

By switching to unmonitored mail-in balloting (illegally, as was the case in Pennsylvania), election officials opened the floodgates to rampant fraud. The evidence we have uncovered in the 2020 election is deeply disturbing.

Now, as the Pennsylvania legislature has filed a measure to withdraw their certification of electors over widespread fraud, we are working to enact similar measures in other hotly contested states. The evidence of fraud, as you have seen over my last several emails, is overwhelming.

Yet even as we fight for free, fair and transparent elections, we continue to defend the pastors, churches and parishioners facing arrest, criminal charges, fines and jail time for attending church.

Last week, we received a huge win at the Supreme Court regarding our church clients in California. The no-worship order of California Gov. Newsom covers 99.1% of the state! The handwriting is now on the wall. These restrictions are going down. This win is a huge one. Now, we will be busier than ever filing suits to strike down these laws across the country.
