

George O. Wood Calls Out Most Important Case on Religious Liberty Case in a Lifetime

Assemblies of God Superintendent George O. Wood recently visited with nationally recognized legal experts Joshua D. Hawley and Richard R. Hammar to talk about the significance of the Sebelius v. Hobby Lobby case currently before the Supreme Court.

Wood calls the case “the single most important case on religious liberty that we’ll experience in a lifetime.”

Watch the video below.

