

How Banning Liebscher, Francis Chan and Matt Chandler Are Joining Forces This Fall

Two years after the historic Together event on the National Mall that drew hundreds of thousands to worship Jesus and pray for the country, PULSE is announcing the lineup for Together 2018: Texas Motor Speedway.

On Oct. 20-21, PULSE will bring together an exciting list of speakers, pastors and artists to call and equip the next generation to move closer to one another, Jesus and the world He loves in the Dallas/Ft. Worth NASCAR venue that can hold nearly a quarter of a million people. A free event open to the public, Together 2018 will feature prayer and worship, with a focus on overcoming the divisiveness that marks our country through adopting a lifestyle marked by mirroring the love and kindness of Jesus.

The lineup for Together 2018 features:

Hillsong Worship

“In an age defined by division that often labels us as those who are for and against politics, issues and each other—Jesus invites all of us to move closer,” said Nick Hall, PULSE founder and evangelist. “Together is about calling people from all backgrounds to move closer to Jesus and the world around us. Two years ago we did just that, and we’re still seeing the tremendous ripple effects of decisions made for Christ on that night. This October, we’ll celebrate Jesus and unleash a generation to follow Him.”
