

Huckabee: If Iran Talks Fail, Trump Won't Be Dragged Into War, 'He'll Lead It'

JERUSALEM, Israel – The Trump administration continues its talks with Iran, and Israelis are addressing the potential outcomes of those negotiations. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu insists that any deal cannot give Iran a path to nuclear weapons.

"A bad deal is worse than no deal. We need a good deal," Netanyahu declared.

At the JNS International Policy Summit, Israeli Strategic Affairs Minister Ron Dermer noted President Trump pulled out of the previous nuclear deal with Iran, the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA) signed by President Barack Obama.

"I have a lot of confidence that President Trump would walk away from a bad deal today as he walked away from a bad deal then. And I think he's been very clear Iran is never going to have a nuclear weapon," Dermer stated.

America's new ambassador to Israel, Mike Huckabee, told the conference Monday that if Iran won't definitively abandon the pursuit of nuclear weapons, President Trump "won't be dragged into a war, he'll lead it."

"I think the President has been as clear as any political figure in history as saying there will be no holding back, and those were his words, those are his policies,” Huckabee observed.

The ambassador also spoke of the evil Hamas committed on Oct. 7th, 2023, when it invaded Israel, torturing and slaughtering pregnant women, babies, the elderly, and the disabled.

“Who does that?” Huckabee asked. “People who are evil, that’s who.”

He added, “This is a vertical battle between heaven and hell, between good and evil. The United States of America and President Trump stand for good and not evil. And that’s why he’s made it very clear that Hamas has no future in Gaza or anywhere else on this earth.”
