

Is the Final Stage Here? Pope Leo Considers Joining Trump's Board of Peace

Are we entering the final chapter of humanity?

As President Donald Trump continues to work to gather world leaders and nations onto his Board of Peace, one of his most recent taps for this prestigious team is none other than Pope Leo XIV himself.

According to Reuters, the pope was invited to join the Board of Peace, as Cardinal Pietro Parolin from the Vatican shared.

"The pope has received an invitation, and we are considering what to do," Parolin said. "I believe it will be something that requires a bit of time for consideration before giving a response."

As the Catholic News Reporter noted, the Vatican received an invitation to join the Board of Peace, and Italy is considering joining as well.

"We are considering what to do; we are looking into it," he said.

If the Pope does indeed join the Board of Peace, we could be looking at major end-time implications. While mainstream outlets have framed the Board of Peace as merely a diplomatic experiment, we cannot ignore the end-times precedent it is setting. A multinational council working to establish peace in the Middle East—long seen as the flashpoint of biblical conflict—aligns with the very patterns Scripture says will precede the final global shaking.

Even more telling is the structure of the Board itself: 10 primary members, a number that instantly evokes the “10 kings” described in Daniel and Revelation who will rise in the last days and form a governing coalition before the appearance of the final world ruler. Whether intentional or not, the architecture is already taking shape: world leaders, global peace, Middle East negotiations and now the Vatican weighing its place at the table.

If Pope Leo XIV accepts the invitation, that opens an entirely new prophetic dimension. Not only would the universal church be represented within a structure resembling the 10-king coalition, but it could also brush against the haunting prophecy of William Branham, who warned that the end would follow soon after the rise of an American pope.

In a world racing toward unity and “peace and security,” we may be watching the stage being built in real time. If that is the case, the question becomes less speculative and more sobering: Are we entering the final chapter of humanity?
