

Is This New Technology Fulfilling End Times Prophecy?

Are the most recent technological inventions a fulfillment of end times prophecy?

One of the most recent warnings about facial recognition technology is its potential to predict the political orientation of people simply based on their photos, even without expressions.

Fox News reported a study by the American Psychologist journal which says artificial intelligence's ability to guess someone's political affiliation is "on par with how well job interviews predict job success, or alcohol drives aggressiveness."

This eerie study comes as Apple received a patent last year for their "next-generation of AirPods Sensor System" as Patently Apple noted, which has the potential to measure the brain activity of its users.

Apple Magazine writes that "The US Patent & Trademark Office has granted a patent to Apple for next-generation AirPods, which could measure electrooculography (EOG), electromyography (EMG), electroencephalography (EEG), and other biosignals."

So, what does this all mean? If technology is at the point where we can no longer keep the most personal, private information to ourselves, then those who have evil intentions can plot and plan with ill-will in their hearts.

Before It's News and The People's Voice on Rumble reported that the U.N. has worked on a "toolkit to 'debunk' and 'prebunk' anyone who dares to suggest the global elite are anything but completely honest."

When it comes to technology and new cultural norms or positions being infiltrated through the media government, and big corporations, we must use discernment.

So, could the use of artificial intelligence to learn more information about people's political and religious backgrounds make them a target by those who disagree?

Revelation 13:16-17 discusses the mark of the beast, which says that both rich and poor must have this mark either on their forehead or right hand, otherwise they will not be able to buy or sell. There is coming a time when going against the grain will not be acceptable at all by society.

In Matthew 10, Jesus speaks of the coming persecution for His followers. Verse 22 is very clear: "You will be hated by all men for My name's sake. But he who endures to the end will be saved."

Is it possible that these new inventions are ushering in the fulfillment of these end times prophecies? Quite likely. However, no matter what we see coming, it is ultimately Jesus' promise that if we endure to the very end, we will be saved. His promise to never leave us or forsake us is still true, even in the middle of trials and tribulations.
