

Israel's Day of Disruption: How Events Are Shaping the Middle East

The "Day of Disruption" happened on Tuesday in Israel amid rising tensions with protestors asking for the release of hostages that are still in Gaza.

According to NBC News, those part of the protest held up images of those who were still stuck in Gaza as they asked for an end to the war. As The Guardian noted, thousands of people blocked roadways, calling for Benjamin Netanyahu to end the war. Protestors showed up from the city of Haifa and even inside of the Ben Guiron airport.

This comes after Israel struck a hospital in Gaza which killed 20 people, with Netanyahu issuing an apology following the incident.

“Israel deeply regrets the tragic mishap that occurred today at the Nasser Hospital in Gaza. Israel values the work of journalists, medical staff, and all civilians. Our war is with Hamas terrorists. Our just goals are defeating Hamas and bringing our hostages home,” Netanyahu said, according to CBN News.

On X, Pastor Greg Locke responded to this situation, writing, " Hamas kills hundreds of people on purpose and brags about it...no one says a word. Israel kills a handful of people on accident and makes a massive apology...everyone has a meltdown. The selective outrage against Israel is nauseating."
