

Kathie Lee Gifford Finds Refuge in God After Husband's Death

Kathie Lee Gifford is turning to God after the death of her husband, Frank.

The TV personality put her faith on display via social media: "Deeply grateful to all for your outpouring of grace. We are steadfast in our faith and finding comfort in knowing where Frank is. Phillippians 4:13."

Frank Gifford died Sunday morning at age 84. The former athlete married Kathie Lee in 1986, and they had two children.

The couple's Christian walk together was greatly impacted by the Rev. Billy Graham, according to Today's Christian Woman.

After Frank's infidelity, the couple turned to the minister for counseling.

"When my husband was unfaithful to me, and it was a terrible time, you know who Billy called first? Frank. He called Frank first," Kathie Lee says. "Then I got on the line. He wanted to talk to both of us. He knew that healing had to be from both of us," Kathie Lee told TCW.

Now, Kathie Lee is clinging to her faith to carry her through.