

Kim Clement Prophecy: From Fire to Revival

Is it possible for God to redeem California from the wildfires and bring America into a spiritual revival?

In a prophecy from March 2, 2013, the late Kim Clement spoke about California, fire and a coming spiritual revolution.

“That which I did in the 60’s and the 70’s. I have revealed this is that time again,” Clement prophesied. “But it shall not be like then where it is restricted to just a few continents. This movement, says the Lord, will begin again in California. And there shall be an economic boost in California. And they shall say, ‘Why California? Is it not the hellhole of America?’ God says, ‘I don’t care what it is; I will take the economy of California and show America that I will take the foolish things of this world to compound the wise. Then I will take the low things of this world to make my light shine.’”

Clement prophesied that the people across the nation would wonder how such a great revival would happen in California. However, God sees what mankind cannot see.

“And America shall look at California and say, ‘It’s impossible. Look at the economy rising up.’ And I shall rejoice for it shall not be as a result of the economists, but it shall be a result of the movement that is beginning to take place,” Clement prophesied.

Clement believed that like the Jesus Movement, this coming revival would be greatly influenced by people of Hispanic origin who would unashamedly preach the gospel everywhere they go.

"And suddenly, all throughout West L.A., it shall spread and spread and spread. From house to house. From prison to prison," Clement said. "And My fire shall consume criminal activities in California. And then it shall spread to New York. Then it shall spread to the South."

Clement further prophesied that the name of Jesus was going to consume the streets of L.A. and San Francisco. Clement also prophesied about the state of California in his famous "witch in the White House" prophecy.

"California, you are dying because of a drought. Watch my sign. Watch the sign of rain. For I told you there would be severe wind from above. And all the states that are affected by this severe weather have been set up for a shaking of My Spirit and an outpouring of My Spirit. But, California, I am looking at you. Gold, stone, California, a smaller statue..." Clement prophesied.

As we know, the Golden Globes just took place where celebrities accepted their golden awards, with jokes being poked at God, which very well could tie into this prophecy.

While we should continue to pray for the fires in California to cease, we also should be praying for this spiritual revival that Clement prophesied about to spread across California, that more hearts and minds would be opened and receptive to the truth of the gospel.
