

Kingdom Women Launch Battle for Soul of America

A new conservative, Christian women's movement has launched a multi-state bus tour to "fight for the soul of America" and "bring healing amid the current chaos."

"There was a time when people were proud to be Americans, when morality reigned and our Constitution was actually respected," said Christie Hutcherson, founder and CEO of Women Fighting For America (WFFA), announcing the "Heal Our Land" bus tour of 10 states and the nation's capital.

The event tour kicked off in late August in Jacksonville, Florida. A complete schedule of tour dates and locations is posted online at

With the future of America hanging in the balance, women need to step up and speak out, Hutcherson said. "If we don't rise up now as women—fierce, bold and strong—I'm fearful for my children and my children's children. We're fighting for the soul of America."

Calling women "the heart of the family, and the heart of America," Hutcherson said: "We must save America's children, our values and our Constitution."

Starting in Jacksonville, the group's road tour will include events in Texas, Tennessee, the Carolinas, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ohio—culminating at the National Mall in Washington, D.C., two days before the presidential election. Events will include speakers as well as prayer for the nation.

The grassroots women's movement says it aims to "bring healing amid the current chaos" by restoring traditional values, educating this generation about America's Judeo-Christian roots and protecting Constitutional freedoms.

'Silent Too Long'

"Right now, evil is seen as good, and good is seen as evil," said Hutcherson, a mother of two and small business owner. "There's a lot at risk in our nation, and we've been silent too long."

Urging women to speak up for traditional values and "fight with a velvet fist," she said many were shamed into staying silent through false media narratives portraying conservatives and traditionalists as bigots and racists.

Based out of Florida—a key battleground state in the upcoming election—WFFA plans to have chapters across the U.S., encouraging women nationwide to come together to help shape their communities, run for school boards and other public offices and speak out on issues at their county courthouse.
{eoa}

Women Fighting For America (WFFA) is a new conservative, Christian women's movement seeking to bridge the gap of divisiveness and confusion in America, restore traditional American values, protect Constitutional freedoms and advocate for Christian virtues.