

‘Let the Church ROAR!’ Prayer Rally Invades DC for Jericho March to ‘Stop the Steal’

A peaceful protest and prayer march took place in Washington, D.C., Saturday where participants rallied for America’s election system to be free from fraud and corruption.

People of faith marched before gathering at 11 a.m. on the National Mall for the “Let the Church ROAR!” Prayer Rally where they heard from guest speakers such as Lt. Gen. Mike Flynn, Pastor Jonathan Cahn, Kevin Jessip, author Eric Metaxas, CEO of MyPillow Mike Lindell and many more. Flynn spoke at noon followed by Jessip at 1:15 p.m. and Cahn at 3:30 p.m.

Additional “ROAR!” rallies occurred at the state capitols of Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin at noon.

The “Jericho March” also hosted a special prayer event where participants marched around the U.S. Capitol, Supreme Court and the Department of Justice. Since Nov. 5, Jericho Marchers have been fasting, praying and marching daily around their state capitols, praying for a fair and transparent election.

“We are Joshuas. And we need the sound of praise to bring down the walls of the Swamp,” Knoxville, Tennessee’s Julia Bithorn told CBN News as she and her sister Susan Rolls passed by the Supreme Court.

These Jericho Marchers believe if America's elections can be stolen, American voters will no longer be in charge of their nation and will no longer be free.

Al Crider of Siloam Springs, Arkansas said as he marched, "We want America to remain free, as it always has been."
