Camp Mystic, a Christian summer camp, has so far seen at least 27 lives claimed in this horrific event. After friends and other campers were swept up in this horrific event, a group of girls leaving the camp decided to give Jesus all the honor and praise singing hymns as they left the scene.

“Here are some survivors from Camp Mystic. It’s OK to cry. It’s a traumatizing experience. Lives were lost,” one commentator wrote on X. “Their singing and praising God has brought tears to my eyes. Brave, brave girls.”

These girls are precious. As they are leaving this difficult situation, they are singing. TEARS.

Our hearts are broken for families who experienced such heavy loss this weekend in Texas.

The flash flooding on the Guadalupe River in Central Texas has now taken the lives of at least 80+ people including many children.

Would you please continue to pray for every family affected during this painful time, as well as the first responders that are part of the search and rescue process?
