

Man Attacks Florida Christian Radio Station, Assaults DJs, Amasses $100,000 Worth of Damage

A man burst into a Christian radio station this week where he assaulted DJs and amassed more than $100,000 worth of damage.

Sergo Hippolite allegedly stormed into the Orlando-based online radio station on Thursday, which is based out of La Voix Evangelique d'Orlando church.

A witness told an NBC affiliate Hippolite went straight to the recording area where he slapped and kicked two people who were recording a broadcast. He then destroyed the equipment before returning to the church, where he was detained.

According to its website, La Voix Evangelique d' Orlando (VEO) is a Christ-centered, nonprofit, listener-supported radio ministry. "By being Christ-centered, we take our lead from God's Son Jesus, as revealed in the Holy Scriptures. They concentrate on creating the kind of radio that encourages listeners not only to 'sing along, but live along with us,'" and impact lives for Christ.
